

Publication Strategies in the Social Sciences

Tuesday, 29 November 2016, 09:30-13:30

It is essential for a career in academia to publish research results in relevant peer-reviewed scientific journals and to make others aware of one's research. This workshop offers insights into publication strategies in the Social Sciences. Participants will learn how to present themselves optimally within the community of their own discipline as well as to the international scientific community. At the same time they will gain insight into how to enhance the international visibility of their research results.

Target group: Doctoral candidates and postdocs at the beginning of their research career at the Faculty of Social Sciences.

Venue: Conference Room of the Faculty of Social Sciences, Neues Institutsgebäude (NIG), Universitätsstraße 7, 6. floor, staircase III, room C628A.

Registration via e-mail to roman.pfefferle@univie.ac.at until 22 November 2016 („first-come-first-served“, max. 18 participants).

Program

09:30-11:15

How to Successfully Publish and Thrive

Dr. Christian Gumpenberger (Bibliometrics and Publication Strategies, Vienna University Library and Archive Services)

Open Access: The Future of Academic Publishing

OR Dipl.-Ing. Guido Blechl (Open Access Office Coordinator, Vienna University Library and Archive Services)

11:30-13:30

Publishing in peer-reviewed Journals: Practical Examples from highly experienced Professors

11:30-12:30

Univ.-Prof. Dr. Hajo Boomgaarden (Department of Communication, Vice-Dean of the Faculty of Social Sciences)

12:30-13:30

Publishing in peer-reviewed Journals: Experiences and Practical Examples with special attention to Anthropology

Univ.-Prof. Dr. Tatjana Thelen (Department of Social and Cultural Anthropology)

Discussion and Conclusion